

Education: Essential towards personalised diabetic foot ulcer patient care

Mölnlycke® platinum sponsor symposium at International Symposium on the Diabetic Foot (ISDF)

Wednesday 22 May 2019, 13:00 – 14:00 CET
World Forum, The Hague, Netherlands

How education can help personalise care for DFU patients

Educating patients, carers and healthcare professionals about proper foot care and periodic foot examinations can help to prevent ulceration and promote personalised treatment of the diabetic foot ulcer (DFU).

Join us and some of the best minds in this field as they share their research and experiences. In this symposium, you will learn about:

- Applying DFU education in daily clinical practice
- The role of education in tailoring patient treatment plans
- The importance of thorough DFU assessment in the development of an appropriate treatment protocol

Presentations from leading international experts

The symposium will be chaired by Jan Apelqvist, Associate Professor of Endocrinology, Skåne University Hospital, Malmö, Sweden, with guest speakers including:

- ✓ Paul Chadwick, Visiting Professor in Tissue Viability, Birmingham City University, Birmingham, UK
- ✓ Dr. José Luis Lázaro Martínez, Tenured Professor, Clinical Director, Head of Diabetic Foot Unit, Universidad Complutense, Madrid, Spain
- ✓ David Armstrong, Professor of Surgery and Director, Southwestern Academic Limb Salvage Alliance (SALSA) at Keck School of Medicine, University of Southern California, USA
